CMAI Attracts Over 700 participants at 24th Annual World Petrochemical Conference & Workshops

Houston, TX - Chemical Market Associates, Inc. (CMAI) played host to over 700 conference and workshop attendees, press and high profile industry speakers last week at its 24th Annual World Petrochemical Conference and Workshops in Houston, Texas. Deemed “very successful” and “our highest quality turnout” by President Gary Adams, with the same sentiments echoed from attendees and the press that covered and reported on the conference. Given the state of the global economy, CMAI is “extremely pleased” with the number of attendees and the broad representation (over 330 companies) of participants from the chemical industry around the world. Copies of the conference proceedings are available in book and cd rom format. To order your copy, contact CMAI at cmai@cmaiglobal.com or complete the order form at www.cmaiglobal.com.

Keynote Speaker Abdulaziz M. Al-Judaimi, VP of New Business Development for Saudi Aramco, Kingdom of Saudi Arabia, started out the first day providing valuable insight regarding the future opportunities leveraged by integrating large energy companies with petrochemical entities. Jose Carlos Grubisich, President and CEO of ETH Bioenergia S/A Brazil, addressed the afternoon session on “The Contribution of Renewables for the Energy and Chemical Markets” and Alasdair Nisbet, Managing Director and Global Head of Chemicals for Lazard, U.K., followed concerning “Surviving the Financial Crisis – The Chemical Industry in 2014.” Presentations by CMAI speakers and other industry participants throughout the two day conference gave attendees insight into the current market conditions and the knowledge and tools to prepare for what the uncertain future will bring.

CMAI’s two industry workshops, the Petrochemical Industry Fundamentals Workshop in its 7th year and the Polyolefins Industry Workshop in its 3rd, again presented a one of a kind opportunity for industry players to become better acquainted with the language, concepts and key issues in the industry. These workshops are designed and taught by CMAI industry experienced consultants, and are well-known in the chemical community as a solid venue for gaining a comprehensive view of the petrochemicals industry.
